

INFRASTRUCTURE

DOWNSTREAM INFRASTRUCTURE

Maui offshore platforms; Tui and Maari FPSOs; Pohokura, Maari and Kupe unmanned platforms.

Eight onshore production stations in Taranaki.

North Island gas pipeline network, including pipelines to Gisborne and Hastings.

Oil refinery and port at Marsden Point, Whangarei, with connections to the North Island gas pipeline network and a liquids pipeline to Auckland.

TRANSMISSION AND DISTRIBUTION

There are more than 3,500 km of high pressure gas transmission pipelines in New Zealand, which radiate from Taranaki to Wellington in the south and north to Huntly, Auckland and Whangarei.

A further 2,800 km of intermediate, medium and low pressure gas distribution pipeline networks in North Island are connected to the high pressure transmission systems and branch to Gisborne and Hastings.

The largest pipeline, to Huntly, supplies the E3P 385 MW and 50 MW gas turbine.

The Motonui Methanex plant near New Plymouth is also a major user of gas.
